DOUBLE MURDER AFTER QUARREL

Fulton Woman, Jealous of Chum, Shoots Friend and Turns Gun on Self.

FULTON, Mo., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Harriet Aison, aged and decrepit, today attempted to telephone her husband to stop a quarrel between her daughter and her cousin's friend. As she got the connection she heard three shots, one killing her daughter and another killing her daughter's friend.

Mrs. Marion McGowan was the daughter's name and her friend was Miss Carolyn Weant.

When the door was finally pushed in, the bodies of the women were found lying on the floor with a hot revolver between them. Both of the women had been shot through the heart.

This afternoon at a coroner's inquest an open verdict was returned. Mrs. McGowan and Miss Weant had been quarreling for some time and had been drinking for years. According to reports they were jealous of each other's popularity among other women.

Mrs. Aison attempted to force the door before she went to the telephone to call her husband. She had heard scuffling in the women's rooms and had attempted to enter. When she went to the telephone the three shots were fired. The police removed the bodies from the room. The occurrence today is said to be the outcome of an intense quarrel last Friday.

BROWN AND HIS STRAD

Violinist Coming Here This Week Has a Sense of Humor.

Eddie Brown, the violinist who will appear in a concert in the University Auditorium next Thursday evening, has a well-developed sense of humor along with his ability as a musician. Recently while stopping in a little western town, Mr. Brown was considering the purchase of another violin, a Spanish instrument which now holds an important place in his collection. He had heard the violin before, was pleased with its tone and satisfied with its price. Therefore, the exaggerated claims of the salesman were unheeded.

"Suppose you go in the next room, and see if you can distinguish between the new instrument and my Strad," he suggested.

"I could tell that instrument anywhere," declared the salesman as he went outside. Returning, he said: "The first one you played was the Strad. And even though it is worth several times this Spanish instrument, the latter, which you played last night, has the sweeter tone."

"Perhaps," agreed Mr. Brown. "But I played the Strad both times."

JOSEPH HOLMAN MISSING

Holman was expected at home. When he failed to arrive last Saturday morning, his father, Waldo Holman, telephoned to his father, Waldo Holman, telephoned to Mrs. E. M. Prather, that Holman had been gone since Monday. Mr. Holman came to Columbia Saturday afternoon but was unable to obtain any information that would assist him in finding his son. He returned to Huntsville with his son's property Sunday morning.

Should Mail Packages First of Week.

L. J. Hall, postmaster, has asked that people in Columbia, especially the students, mail their packages earlier in the week. As it is, the great number of packages and laundry boxes that are mailed regularly on Friday and Saturday, are delayed and do not reach their destination as soon as they would if mailed earlier. Packages are always held up in other postoffices over Sunday, and for that reason it would benefit the senders as well as help the employees of the office to send the parcels on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday.

Legion to Meet Tonight.

The American Legion will hold a meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the club rooms over the Central Bank. Plans for the Armistice Day Parade will be made. It is the request of the president of the Legion post that all members be present at this meeting as there will be important business to be transacted.
